Dear Alkon / AIRman partner,

Alkon is pleased to announce the acquisition of AIRman Products LLC. AIRman has a long history of providing creative pneumatic solutions for mobile and industrial applications that complements Alkon's existing product lines and businesses.

AIRman has demonstrated a commitment to quality, innovative solutions, and customer service that reflect Alkon's core values. This acquisition will further expand our North American manufacturing footprint while bolstering our ability to partner with our customers to provide mobile and industrial pneumatic system solutions that protect and build their brand reputation for dependability and innovation.

As an established partner to either Alkon or AIRman, in the near term, we will continue to work with you and your organization as we always have. As we progress with our integration efforts, we look forward to working with you to identify how your organization may be positioned to help our combined businesses grow.

Over the long term, this acquisition will serve to fundamentally bolster AIRman's and Alkon's competitive position in the mobile pneumatic system market segment, helping to set the stage for our collective long-term growth and prosperity.

We value your partnership and support. If you have concerns or see opportunities in the near term, please reach out to your current AIRman or Alkon business contact.
